FARMHOUSE

Family Farmhouse

Interior design and story by Shay Geyer

From the moment I met Ashley McCurry to begin working on her new home in Southlake, I knew a fun project was in store. Ashley lights up a room with her bright and joyful spirit.

She and her husband, Brandon, were seeking a design that could grow with their family. Ashley loved the laidback and vintage aspects of farmhouse style, but didn't want it to feel clichéd. We agreed the design goal would be to infuse color with a modern mix of old and new to reflect their family's lifestyle and values.

The Entry | page 7

Lively color greets you upon entering the home's double wrought-iron doors. While the door's lines are clean and modern, its hardware provides a sneak peek into the vintage accents placed throughout the home. A vibrant, abstract oil painting sets a cheerful tone above the entry console, which features polished-chrome hardware and pattern detailing.

The Family Room | 1

The family room is the hub of the house and offers the ideal setting for entertaining family and friends.

Plentiful seating was high on Ashley and Brandon's priority list: A large sofa in a Sunbrella fabric with black onyx nailheads was designed for their spacious family room. A favorite design element of the sofa is the tailored detailing on its back. Monogrammed pillows and "pops" of aqua complement the sofa.

A vintage-inspired rug grounds the space and ties together a palette of apple green, aqua, black and white. Color Block draperies add a dramatic contrast and statement to draw guests into the room.

A large distressed-wood cocktail table, spindle chair and ottoman pay homage to the farmhouse style. A pair of ottomans upholstered in a bright green and aqua pattern provide another pop of color and extra seating for entertaining.

Reclaimed beams, exposed brick and vintage door hardware accentuate the farmhouse architectural style. Vintage accessories, new items and family heirlooms adorn the room's bookcases.

The Kitchen | 2

The kitchen's showstopper is a Lacanche range in black with brass hardware and accents. Not only does it make a gorgeous design statement, it's also any chef's dream appliance and the perfect addition for those with a passion for cooking.

The kitchen's island is a popular gathering spot with upholstered black-and-white swivel counter stools with aqua contrast welt cord. Crystal pendants and brass plumbing are perfect accents.

The Breakfast Nook | 3

with a chevron pattern and aqua accent adds playfulness to the area.
